

THE KLONDYKE MINE

Is Unquestionably a Good Proposition.

A First Class Mill Ordered—The Returns Are Good and Show Nice Values.

Thomas M. Drennan, ex-clerk of the Indian agency at Parker, says the Sun, returned recently from Chicago, where he ordered a three and one-half foot Huntington mill and concentrator for his Klondyke mine, which is situated above and across the Colorado river from Parker. The mill has already been shipped and will be installed by the first of September.

Mr. Drennan almost unquestionably has a good gold proposition. He has been developing the property for a couple of years, and now has eight men at work getting out ore. Recently he associated with himself his brother, John C. Drennan and Mrs. Sidney F. Andrews, both of Chicago. They are preparing to incorporate on a solid basis, under the laws of Arizona.

The Klondyke's vein crops for a distance of 1,200 feet, and shafts have been sunk at intervals the entire length, showing the same character of ore throughout. The deepest workings are seventy-five feet. Two holes having been sunk to this depth, while there are many others of less consideration. Altogether over 1,000 feet of work has been done on the property. The vein is not wide but clearly defined and perfectly in place, and the ore is high grade. Several small shipments for mill tests have been made, which netted good returns and showed the proper method of extracting the values. The ore is but about forty per cent, free, which necessitates the use of a concentrator.

Mr. Drennan went to Los Angeles, where he purchased wagons, teams, etc., for freighting from the railroad to the Klondyke.

Good Placer Diggings.

The following report comes from Needles concerning the Coolgardie placer fields in California:

V. O. Lyon, a telegraph operator in the employ of the Santa Fe Pacific railroad at Kansas, has just returned from a six weeks' trip with a dry washer, during which time he saved $900 in coarse gold. He considers this very good remuneration for a two months' leave of absence, and it is probable that he will return to the fields and continue the work of dry washing instead of "jerking lightning."

Boers Are Retiring.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Roberts reports the Boers retiring all along the line. They are releasing the British prisoners as they fall back. The British occupied Watervalhoven and Watervalonder. The natives report Kruger at Pilgrim's Rest.

Plague at Glasgow.

GLASGOW, Aug. 31.—Eleven persons are now suffering from the bubonic plague here, and five others have symptoms.

FIND A PLACER GOLD FIELD.

Three Men Take Out $300,000 in Eight Months in Lower California.

At various times during the past six months reports have reached Seattle, Wash., of the discovery of a placer gold field in Lower California. It was reported to be situated 40 or 50 miles south of Camp Companis and was said to be of fabulous richness. Some doubt has existed regarding the authenticity of this report, and as a consequence no attempt has been made by any considerable number of miners to occupy the field.

Early last week there arrived in the city three prospectors—Martin Hullen, B. G. Geddin and James Crawford, who give substantial evidence that the reports which have come are not exaggerated. These men entered the gold fields of Lower California about eight months ago. They took a large quantity of provisions with them and were thus able to make a thorough test of the productiveness of the fields. At first they had some difficulty in obtaining a sufficient quantity of water, but after getting a sufficient quantity from a small spring they had marked success in panning out gold from the rich gravel. In the eight months they were there they cleared over $200,000. They have secured good titles and have come to Seattle to organize a large company to work in the fields.

These men state that the placer mining fields embrace a tract of more than 225,000 acres, and on account of their remoteness from the highways of travel but few prospectors have been to these regions.

OPENS COFFIN LONG SHUT.

The Body Once Petrified Is Exhumed to Be Found Resolved to Dust.

Twenty-five hundred miles by rail for the purpose of learning whether or not the body of her little son was petrified is the record of Mrs. Ewing, of Salt Lake City, who was a former resident of Clinton, Ia.

In early life Mrs. Ewing was the wife of Gen. Granger, whose only son was buried in the residence lot. A couple of years later the body was exhumed, and was buried in Oakland cemetery. In removing the remains it was noticed that the body was as heavy as stone, and it was thought to be petrified. The lid was removed and the remains were found to be in as perfect a state of preservation as when the child died.

Anxious to know the condition of her little son's remains, she concluded to visit the city for that purpose, and arrived at Clinton the other day, and in company with a few friends visited the cemetery and the sexton removed the body, where it had rested nearly 40 years. The lid of the coffin was removed and all that was found of the remains of the boy was a handful of fine dust.

Costs Money to Run a Newspaper.

Arthur Pearson, whose Daily Express, London's latest half-penny journal informed the public recently that he was losing $1,250 a day on his paper, that the cost of the plant and of the preliminary work made the first issue worth $500,000; that to establish the Express will cost $1,250,000 and two years of very hard work, and that the next person who wants to establish a daily paper in London must spend $2,500,000.

BEAUTY WINS SUIT.

Use of Young Woman's Picture for an Advertisement Forbidden.

Judge in His Ruling Declares Beauty is a Property Right Over Which Its Possessor Has Absolute Control.

Justice Davy, of the supreme court at Rochester, N. Y., has overruled the demurrer to the complaint of Miss Abigail Robertson, the 18-year-old girl who brought suit against the Franklin Mills company, of Lockport, and the Rochester Folding Box company for $15,000 damages.

Miss Robertson, who is a very beautiful girl, found that, unknown to herself, her portrait was being used by the defendant companies as an advertisement for flour. Her chief ground in bringing suit was that her right of privacy had been invaded, a point never before passed upon in the courts of this country. In the course of his decision Judge Davy said:

"It does not appear from the complaint in this action that the plaintiff is within the category of what might be denominated a public character. She is undoubtedly a young woman of rare beauty, and this she enjoys as a private citizen. It is very natural, if the plaintiff is of a modest and retiring nature, that any such publicity would be extremely disagreeable and offensive to her. It is not impossible, therefore, that she has suffered and continues to suffer great mental injury and distress."

"In other words, there is a plausible ground for the existence of the distress and injury alleged in her complaint. If her lithographic likeness, owing to its beauty, is of great value as a trade-mark or an advertising medium, it is a property right which belongs to her and cannot be taken from her without her consent. She has a right to say that without her consent these lithographic copies of her likeness shall not be circulated or used by the defendants."

TUNNELS IN NEW YORK.

Private Enterprise Anxious to Secure Franchise for Construction of Route Under East River.

Something of a surprise was sprung at the meeting of the state railroad commission in New York city when the full scope and plans for two projected tunnels under the East river were fully explained. The tunnels are to cost $30,000,000 and are to be completed in five years, and the money is to be put up by English capitalists. The companies making application are the New York and Brooklyn Union Transportation company, and the New York, Brooklyn & Jersey City Rapid Transit company.

A. B. Boardman, counsel for the rapid transit commission, argued that no private enterprise should be allowed to forestall the rapid transit commission, which is acting for the municipality. William Van Steenberg, for the petitioners, said it would be unfair to place obstacles in the path of private enterprise, more especially as the rapid transit commissioners were not prepared to state whether their projected road would be laid out in one, five or ten years.

ONE ON THE BARKEEPER.

How an Impassioned Patron Got a Seltzer Lemonade for Five Cents.

A man with a rusty coat entered a saloon on West Madison street and called for seltzer and lemon. When the glass was set before him he looked at it with a red and nervous eye, says the Chicago Chronicle.

"Kindly drop a lump of sugar in it," he said to the barkeeper. This was done and the man with the rusty coat agitated the mixture with a spoon. Then he drank it, tossed a five-cent piece upon the bar and left the place with a dingy handkerchief at his lips. Another man who stood near the cigar lighter and who had been an interested spectator now spoke.

"What do you charge for seltzer and lemon?" he asked.

"Five cents," was the prompt reply of the bartender.

"And what for a seltzer lemonade?"

"Fifteen cents."

"Well, said the man at the cigar lighter, 'I can see how you can get one for five cents.'"

Then the barkeeper remembered the lump of sugar and beat his breast in anger.
